

This map shows a blue route with arrows, likely representing a water quality monitoring path or a specific travel route. The route begins in the northwest, near the Red River, and proceeds north through the city of Moorhead. It then loops around the City of Moorhead Wastewater Treatment Plant, which is located in the northeast. From there, the route heads south and east, passing through various residential and commercial areas. Key landmarks and roads include the Red River, the City of Moorhead Wastewater Treatment Plant, and major roads like Highway 75 and Highway 95. The map also shows surrounding areas like Fargo and Dilworth.