Keeping the Conversation Going!

In a world of text messaging, Twitter and Facebook, the face-to-face/person-to-person conversation format is becoming as extinct as the dinosaurs. It begs the question – is starting a conversation and keeping it going a necessary skill our kids should have or is it just one more of the “old” way of doing things that can go by the wayside?

Research has found that parents play an important role in a child’s word learning. Parents who talk with their kids not only help increase their child’s vocabulary, they are teaching them important social skills and expanding their awareness of the world around them. Learning the art of conversing with your child while he or she is younger will help build an open communication channel that will come in handy for the “older child” conversations about curfews, sex and substance use. Having a conversation with younger children is much easier than cornering that independent adolescent! Unless you are good at deciphering grunts and eye rolling, starting and keeping a conversation going can be a challenge.

Here are a few suggestions to starting a conversation and keeping it going:

- Follow your child’s lead in conversations. If she or he initiates a conversation, respond to it. Don’t use it as a time to tell them what chores they need to do or lecture them on something they did wrong.
- Encourage talk by talking about the things you both know about.
- Reply to your child’s comments.
- Designate a time that is for face-to-face conversation only – a no cellphone zone for both child and parent!
- Use a conversation jar or something similar. Fill a decorated jar, bowl or even a small notebook. Keep it on the dining room table. Fill it with slips of papers that contain questions. (See below for examples.) Each night while eating dinner or during your “No cellphone zone,” have the child pick a slip out of the jar. Make the activity fun by having all members of the family answer the question. You will be amazed at the things you can learn about your children and them about you with a few simple questions and rich conversations! Here’s a few questions to get you started on your conversation jar ☺

If you had three wishes what would they be?	If you won a million dollars, what would you do with it?	What was your least favorite subject in school?	What is your favorite subject in school?
If you could take a trip on a spaceship, which two friends would you take with?	Who is your best friend and why?	If you were allowed to stop doing one chore around the house, what would it be?	What are some of the things you want to do in life that you probably couldn’t do if you got into drugs and alcohol?
Tell one thing that you are proud of about yourself.	What is one thing you wish someone would invent? Why?	If you could have anything in the world for dinner, what would it be?	What makes you laugh?
If you could be on any television show, which show would it be?	Tell us a favorite memory.	If you could invite any famous person to dinner, who would you pick?	What could you do to make the world a better place?

Legally Blonde The Musical JR - Musical Theater Camp

(For students completing grades 5-8 in Spring of 2017)

A Moorhead Community Education and
Fargo Moorhead Community Theatre (FMCT) collaboration

Students completing grades 5-8 can join us for this adventure in musical theater! Everyone who enrolls in this G-rated musical will be cast. Our four-week program will balance theater education with performance rehearsals. Students will receive voice instruction, develop dance skills, delve into character development, and master theater vocabulary and concepts.

During the rehearsal portion of the day, students will interact through ensemble-building exercises and block, choreograph and sing the elements of their characters.

A parent meeting is scheduled for June 1 from 6-7 p.m. in the Moorhead High School Auditorium. Auditions are the first day of rehearsals on June 5. The program will culminate in performances on June 28 and 29 at 2 p.m. and 7 p.m.

To register, go online to <https://communityed.moorheadschoools.org> and select Courses for Youth and Family then Summer Enrichment Camps. Call Moorhead Community Education at 218-284-3400 with questions. Registration must be done online or in person with a registration form because a liability form is needed for all Community Education camps.
